Weber Human Services and Weber Human Services Foundation are celebrating 30 years of serving the community in 2023. To commemorate this special anniversary, the Foundation Board wanted to accomplish 30 Acts of Kindness throughout the year with a special focus on giving back to the community. We are pleased to announce that the Foundation surpassed this goal with more than 50 acts of kindness to current clients at the agency and other local, non-profit organizations.

This report shares stories of how the Foundation worked to help clients throughout the year receive services, along with getting involved in community service projects to help people live better lives. We believe that the services provided by Weber Human Services and other organizations can help make the future brighter for clients and the community at large.

The Foundation Board members participated in a variety of service projects throughout the year. Some of these included,

- Partnering with United Way of Northern Utah to read to students at Green Acres Elementary School. Volunteers spent the morning reading to students in the classroom to emphasize the importance of reading.
- Foundation board members continued volunteer work by partnering their organizations around Weber County with the Foundation to organize a canned food drive in support of Lantern House in Ogden. The food drive was a success and the donation ensured Lantern House had a substantial food donation for those in need.
- During the summer months, the Foundation partnered with the Chamber of Commerce - Women in Business group to promote the importance of the work being done for the residents at Tranquility Home. Tranquility Home is a residential facility for women to live in while they work on substance addiction, while keeping their children with them during their time at the treatment facility. Women in Business created care packages with notes of encouragement. The service project raised awareness about women in recovery and provided much-needed encouragement for the clients in treatment.
- Employees at the agency and the Foundation collected more than 3,500 plastic grocery bags in a service project for the Weber Housing Authority to help make mats for unsheltered people. The mats create a 40-degree temperature difference between the ground and the person using the mat.

In addition to service projects, the Foundation Board approved funding for programs at the agency that directly impact clients and the services they receive.

- Senior Services provided funding to assist a client with a portable oxygen machine to help the client maintain independence in her daily life.
- Eye exams and prescription eye glasses were provided to clients in need.
- Dental care was provided to several volunteers in the Foster Grandparent and Senior Companion programs.
- The Substance Abuse and Mental Health Departments assisted clients with medication copays at the agency pharmacy, mental health vouchers for therapy, and assistance with replacing forms of identification for work permits.

These are just a few examples of the ways the Foundation has provided for the clients at the agency and the local community. We hope you enjoy the stories of client success and community support in this report for the 30th anniversary year. Thank you for being part of the success stories that the Foundation and the agency have provided to the community. Your support helps people in Weber and Morgan counties live their best lives. Thank you for your continued support of these efforts.

With Appreciation,

Supported Employment Breaks Records in Northern Utah

Over the last two years, Weber Human Services Supported Employment program has become number one overall in job placements in Utah and recognized nationally for the work being done to help people maintain employment. The program was also recognized as having the most business partnerships in the State during 2021 and 2022.

Supported Employment assists people with mental health issues and disabilities find suitable jobs. This is done by establishing relationships with the clients and with businesses in the community.

“Recently we had a client who had an interview with a company who has never previously hired our clients,” said Leslie Jones, Employment Specialist Lead. “The client was hired and we are thrilled to have a relationship with another local business in Weber County.”

The program currently works with six business partners, who help employ clients from the agency. The businesses are local to Weber County.

With Foundation support, the program is adding a “Lunch and Learn Program” that will be implemented in the months to come. The program will reach more organizations in Weber County by inviting business owners to lunch so they can learn about the program and get involved.

Mental Health Teams Share Client Success Stories

Weber Human Services Employees run the IMR and PEMFG (psychoeducational Multifamily Group)

Weber Human Services Foundation believes in celebrating client success. The Illness Management Recovery Group (IMR) has hosted four graduations in 2023 for clients who successfully completed their treatment programs. In order to graduate, clients need to attend a minimum of 42 groups. Clients and their support people are able to attend and celebrate this accomplishment. “It has helped empower clients, families, and employees as clients share how the evidence based practice has benefitted their lives,” says Camille Williams, Clinical Operations Supervisor. “On average we have 30 clients that graduate from IMR each quarter.”

The Foundation has also provided funding for a group called Psychoeducational Multifamily Group (PEMFG). Clients and their families are able to learn more about their illness and how to treat it. The workshop brings together all of the families in the program and helps them learn that they are not alone in their disease and the process. It is the building blocks of establishing a supportive network. “Weber Human Services Foundation provides valuable resources that enhance the group experience for clients, families, and employees. This ultimately leads to a more enjoyable experience for those participating in these critical evidence based practices,” said Jed Burton, Director of Clinical Services.

Women in Business Service Project Helps Clients at Tranquility Home

Portable Oxygen for Senior Services Client in Need

Weber Human Services Aging Department manages a short-term case management program called “Access & Intervention.” Over the course of three months, case workers work with clients and learn about their short-term needs. One Aging client was suffering from COPD and was having trouble paying for the cost of a new portable oxygen tank. The tank is very small, but a long-lasting battery costs over $3,500 that Medicare doesn’t cover. “The client has a payment plan lasting years into the future,” said Nobu Iizuka, Director of Community Services. “The case worker recognized the client was in need and asked the Foundation for $1,000 to assist with her debt. The funds reduced the client’s financial burden significantly.”

Both the client and the case worker appreciated the support provided by Weber Human Services Foundation to help the client in the Aging Services Department.

The Chamber of Commerce - Women in Business (WIB) group hosts one service project every year in July to bring awareness to a worthy cause. Weber Human Services Foundation was proud to be selected this year to receive this opportunity and shine a light on the need for support at the residential facility known as Tranquility Home.

Services that allows women to work on their substance addiction while keeping their children with them. The group made care packages that included hygiene items, nail polish, loofas, snacks, and notes of encouragement. “It was truly humbling to see the amount of compassion shared by the members of WIB,” said Wendi Davis, Assistant Clinical Director of Operations. “The donations given will help many ladies be able to take care of personal needs while focusing on their treatment and recovery. This type of support teaches our clients about connections and being a part of a healing community.”

Food Drive Supports The Lantern House

Weber Human Services Foundation partnered with board member organizations in Weber County during the month of March to collect food for the Lantern House in Ogden. The food donated by people in the community through the following organizations provided much-needed fruits, vegetables, and other ingredients to make meals possible for people in need.

- Ascent Credit Union
- D.L. Evans Bank
- Goldenwest Credit Union
- Mountain America Credit Union
- Treco Retirement Community
- The Auberge at North Ogden
- Wasatch Peaks Credit Union
- Weber State University - College of Social & Behavioral Sciences

Service Project for Literacy

Learning to read is one of the most important skills we can instill in our children. Weber Human Services employees and Foundation board members wanted to share that message with children in Weber County. On March 3, 2023, United Way of Northern Utah provided a unique opportunity for the Foundation to support this community service project.

“We had a great opportunity to spend time with students at Green Acres Elementary School,” said Roger Brunker, Foundation Board Treasurer. “A small group of us found ourselves reading a couple of preselected books to one of the younger classes and I was amazed at how enthralled the kids were and how intently they listened. I was equally amazed at how much fun we had reading to them. The experience was well worth the time we spent together.”

Weber Human Services Foundation Celebrates 30th Anniversary

2023 marked 30 years since Weber Human Services Foundation was established. At the same time, the agency became an independent organization. In honor of these milestones, a celebration ensued! Employees, board members, community supporters, and the Chamber of Commerce Spikers gathered in the parking lot at the agency on Thursday, September 14, 2023.

“Ogden is a special place with many nonprofit organizations helping the community on a daily basis,” said Megan Funk, Foundation Board Vice President. “The event was a good way to bring employees, clients, and community supporters together for the special occasion.” The Foundation and the agency wanted to bring local talent and food to the event. Attendees enjoyed lunch and had the option of six, Ogden food trucks including Pig and a Jelly Jar, S’Mothered, Mama’s Toasted Cheeser, Ramen Hous, The Burger Bar, and Fry Me to the Moon. Live music was provided by Ivie League and Bill and Diana, both local Ogden musical acts. The Chamber of Commerce Spikers came out and did a ribbon cutting to celebrate the special milestone and there were booths from every department at the agency with free giveaways and snacks.

When asked about his impressions of the event and why it marked an important milestone in the history of the Foundation and the agency, Kevin Eastman, CEO at Weber Human Services, offered these thoughts.

“When we celebrated our 30th anniversary, name change event, I reflected on my career at Weber Human Services. I have witnessed building and name changes of our agency during this time. The most impactful change I’ve seen, has been the progression of our treatment and services. Science and research has taught us many advancements and our staff who facilitate business processes and direct care, deliver high quality services to our clientele. I am so grateful to work amongst some of the greatest people who choose to work at Weber Human Services, including members of our community who volunteer many hours to the Foundation and our agency.”

Students from Weber State University enjoy the event.
